

Maud Nale, PRP

Corporate Communications | Spokesperson | MC & Moderator

« In the media. On stage.
In English and French. »

Dans les médias. Sur scène. En anglais comme en français.

Maud Nale, PRP, is a corporate communications professional who has spent nearly two decades helping organisations speak with clarity in public. She works in English and French across pan-African and multinational environments, from reputation management and executive media preparation to launch publicity and crisis communications. On stage, she hosts conferences, moderates panels and interviews senior leaders, bringing a communicator's judgement to every programme: what the audience needs to hear, and how to hold the room from the first welcome to the closing thanks.

Two languages

Works in English and French, for Anglophone and Francophone audiences, in the room and on camera.

Continental experience

Nearly two decades in communications, much of it inside pan-African and multinational organisations.

Strategy and stage

A communications professional on stage, with a strategist's eye for time, message and brand.
